For NASCO, "All Trade is Personal"

NASCO is the only tri-national network of North American governments, businesses, associations and educational institutions driven by a common interest in collaboration along commercial corridors and trade networks. The organization and its members, including Bestpass, focus on the competitiveness of North American supply chain, workforce and energy independence.

Bestpass has not only helped to support NASCO's initiatives, but the company has also benefited greatly by being a member.

"NASCO has been an invaluable partner in connecting Bestpass with the entities operating the border toll bridges between the United States and Canada and the United States and Mexico, as well as other organizations that can help us realize our mission to simplify the toll-related challenges faced by commercial truckers, fleet managers and the myriad tolling facilities across North America," said John Andrews, President and CEO of Bestpass.

NASCO will hold its next annual conference, the 2016 Continental Reunion, from Nov. 13 through 15 in Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas. For more information on NASCO, including how to become a member, visit <http://nasconetwork.com/>

It's the life in your years."

The Month of February

Presidents' Day

Ah, Presidents' Day. What better way to remember our former commanders-in-chief than for the ridiculous things they did? Common fact: they're all a little weird.

1. Andrew Jackson taught his parrot how to curse - it was so bad that the parrot had to be removed from his funeral for swearing too much.

2. William McKinley attended Albany Law School, located in Albany, New York - the home of Bestpass.

3. Ulysses S. Grant had a need for speed and he had a hobby of racing through the streets on horseback. He once got a speeding ticket on his horse and was fined $20.

4. Warren G. Harding was obsessed with poker and once bet an entire set of priceless White House China. And lost it.

5. James Madison and Thomas Jefferson were once arrested together for taking a carriage ride in Vermont on a Sunday, which violated state laws.

Driver Spotlight

Meet Jackie & Rich

Jackie and Rich have been a husband and wife driving team for 12 years - all of which have been accident and incident free. They both attended and graduated from West Sacramento Trucking school together. Rich and Jackie love trucking, but they love it even more because they get to share their life on the road, together. They live by "safety first," because after all, they are hauling the most precious of cargo - themselves.

Best story from the road: "Applegate, California, was shut down due to blizzard conditions over Donner. We saw a car approaching and it was an elderly lady. Rich stepped out when he saw her getting out of her car. They talked for a moment and she left. Rich returned with two hot plates of food. The elderly lady made us lunch and brought it to us. Turns out she lived across the road, from the lot we were parked in. There's a lot of great stories, but that one made me cry. People are good."

Their favorite thing about being on the road together: "Just being together. We've been married 21 years and we're the best of friends. Going to new places and meeting new faces alone wouldn't be any fun!"

Their least favorite thing about being on the road together: "There's no place to go if we argue! It's rare when it happens, but when it does, the curtain is all we have to separate ourselves! This scenario usually ends with one of us breaking the silence and ending the disagreement with an 'I love you.'"
